SECTION 1: Getting There: Flights, Airlines, Airports, Cruises, & Weather

1. Hurricane Season Forecast Changes; Eyes East

When the National Hurricane Center, the University of Colorado, and Crown Weather Services — our go-to source for tropical weather information in detail — all predicted a near or slightly below normal 2019 hurricane season, we all breathed something of a sigh of relief -- despite the fact that only takes one storm to wreak havoc.

At that time, meteorologists believed an El Niño condition was developing, which would help inhibit hurricane formation.

Now, that does not appear to be happening. Climatic changes which were expected to yield an El Niño by later this year appear to have stalled, leading to either a neutral situation between El Niño and La Niña or a very slight El Niño...

What all this means is that conditions this coming hurricane season are now expected to be more conducive to the development of storms than had been expected earlier.

Crown Weather chief meteorologist Rob Lightbown noted last week in his report that the Atlantic Ocean was warmer now than expected; that conditions in the tropical Atlantic are expected to be favorable for the formation of tropical systems, not unfavorable as had previously been expected; and there is now an expectation that monsoonal conditions across North Africa will likely be more rich in moisture than usual, which could lead to the development of more robust storms exiting the West African coast and heading into the tropical Atlantic.

None of this means that SXM is going to get hit by a hurricane this season. It just means that everyone should do the wise customary thing this year as in all previous years: keep our eyes open whether we live in the Caribbean, the Gulf of Mexico, or anywhere along the US East Coast from South Florida through to the Canadian border.

With permission, we are reprinting this report from Crown Weather's Rob Lightbown, plus some additional comments he published on Saturday about the forthcoming season. We reiterate that if you live anywhere near the prospective path of any future hurricane it would be a wise move for you to subscribe to the private weather forecasting service that Crown Weather provides. It is very inexpensive and can be extremely valuable to you from both the business and personal perspective as the coming season unwinds. See crownweather.com for much more.

Here is Rob's current forecast for the 2019 hurricane season:

Back on March 24th, we released our hurricane season forecast for the Atlantic, Caribbean and Gulf of Mexico. Since then, it appears that the hurricane season may be busier than previously thought. So, here is an updated forecast with our latest thoughts:

The Numbers: 14 Named Storms, 7 of those storms becoming Hurricanes and 3 of those hurricanes becoming Major Hurricanes (Category 3 or higher on the Saffir-Simpson scale).

Accumulated Cyclone Energy (ACE) Index Forecast: I am forecasting an ACE index this year of 110. This number basically says that I expect that overall activity in the Atlantic may be slightly above average.

ENSO Conditions: The current weak El Nino conditions appear to be at a steady-state and in fact the ENSO state may be trending towards neutral conditions. Once again, the early ENSO models vastly over forecast the El Nino conditions and we may end up with either neutral ENSO conditions or a borderline weak El Nino during the peak of the 2019 Hurricane Season.

What this potentially means is that environmental conditions may be much less hostile for tropical development, especially across the Caribbean and the central and eastern Atlantic.

Sea Surface Temperatures: The overall look of the ocean temperatures across the Atlantic is warmer now than at this time last year. In particular, the ocean water temperatures near the Bahamas, Bermuda, the western Atlantic and the central and eastern Atlantic between the coast of Africa and the Lesser Antilles are above average.

This type of ocean temperature look is not a good one as it could mean that we may be looking a more active hurricane season than what was thought back in late March.

Wind Shear Forecast: A majority of the seasonal model guidance are forecasting near average to below average wind shear values across the western Atlantic, the Caribbean and the Gulf of Mexico. In addition, a majority of the seasonal model guidance are forecasting slightly above average wind shear values across the far eastern Atlantic (east of 40 West Longitude).

What this potentially means is that environmental conditions may be most favorable in close to the Bahamas, the United States and Bermuda and conditions may actually be favorable for tropical cyclones this year across the Caribbean and also favorable for tropical cyclones entering the Caribbean from the east.

Landfall Threat Forecast: The trends in the model guidance for the overall weather pattern this summer into the fall are troubling in terms of landfall risk. An upper level high pressure system may set up shop from the far western Atlantic into the Canadian Maritimes. This could lead to tropical systems being pushed quite far west putting much of the US East Coast at threat this season, especially from the Florida Peninsula to the Carolinas as well as the Bahamas and Bermuda. For this reason, we have placed this region in our highest risk area for a tropical storm or hurricane impact.

Given the position and orientation of the western Atlantic ridge of high pressure combined with the potential for near average to below average wind shear values, I think the region from the western Caribbean to the central and eastern Gulf of Mexico needs to be watched extremely closely for potential tropical storm and hurricane impacts. Based on this, we have placed this region in a high risk area for a tropical storm or hurricane impact, however, I think the US East Coast is a higher risk area.

There continues to be signals in the data that suggest the Leeward Islands, Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and Hispaniola may need to be watched closely for a tropical storm or hurricane impact. Most of the seasonal models are showing an above average rainfall signal. In addition, the rainfall across the Sahel of western Africa has been above average this year and this can be strong signal for robust tropical disturbance activity from the coast of Africa. All of this combined with the position of the upper level high pressure ridge means that I'm going with a medium-high risk for a tropical storm or hurricane impact across the Leeward Islands, Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and the north coast of the Dominican Republic.

For areas that have been "left out", including the western Gulf coast, Mexico and the Bay of Campeche, this does not mean there will definitely not be a threat or impact this season. It just means that based on the latest data, the highest risk for a tropical storm or hurricane impact may end up being along the US East Coast.

And here are the additional comments he published on Saturday, May 25:

More Thoughts Regarding The 2019 Atlantic Hurricane Season: I have some additional thoughts regarding the 2019 Atlantic Hurricane Season that weren't included in our updated seasonal forecast.

The more that I look at the data, the more concerned I become regarding how potentially active this season could be. As I mentioned in my update, the ocean water temperatures in the Main Development Region between the coast of Africa and the Lesser Antilles are warmer right now than they were at this time last year.

In addition, the forecast of El Nino conditions lasting through this summer and autumn is dubious. Many of the ENSO models now show El Nino conditions fading into a neutral ENSO by August, September and October.

Also, the real eye opener for me has been persistent deep thunderstorm activity occurring over the African continent throughout the last 4 to 6 months or so. In addition, rainfall over the Sahel region of Africa has been well above average so far this year. This likely means that we will see a strong western African monsoon this season leading to stronger than average tropical waves and slower than average easterly trade winds. What this means is that the slower than average trade winds will allow the ocean water temperatures to continue to warm to above average levels. In addition, weaker trade winds will tend to not only cut down on the amount of African dust, but also create a potentially low wind shear environment across the eastern and central Atlantic.

This all means that this hurricane season will likely be much more active than I initially thought back in late March and in fact, the season may end up being a little more active still as compared to what I currently think.

The rest of my updated hurricane season forecast that I posted on Wednesday remains the same.

2. Canada Introduces Airline Passenger Bill of Rights

Canada has introduced an airline passenger Bill of Rights entitling passengers flying into and out of Canada to compensation by airlines for a number of airline problems. Here is that story.

3. See Current SXM Weather / Tracking Serious Weather

You'll find detailed observations and forecasts by visiting our main SXM website, www.everythingsxm.com, and clicking either of the weather observations at the top of the page.

The four sources of current weather info, beyond the two above, are:

1) Crown Weather Services whose very inexpensive subscription service is, we feel, the best in the business.

2) Our "Weather" page at www.everythingsxm.com -- it has current satellite images and radar loops and now all the latest NHC weather forecasts, outlooks, and advisories as well. There are now also active weather widgets on the site's home page.

3) Our Everything SXM Facebook Site, which publishes the latest advisories, watches, and warnings when SXM is threatened by any storms.

4) On or off the island, listen to Island 92 -- 91.9FM or see www.island92.com. They report island warnings at once and know exactly what's going on. You can listen on the web anytime through live streaming.

5) For a quick look at weather radar exactly where you are or where you're going, try the My Radar phone app or My Radar for Windows -- excellent programs.

Get a quick, current satellite look at the Atlantic basin anytime: <http://www.goes.noaa.gov/GIFS/ATWV.JPG> .

N. B.: Again...Never rely on any website if you're in the path of a storm; always heed warnings from local authorities.

Download your own NHC Hurricane Chart:

Years ago, before we were all saturated with weather information from cable TV to local (redundant and repetitive) news and forecasts plus weather updates and bulletins on our smart phones, gas stations and television stations offered printed hurricane tracking charts so people at home could try to figure out for themselves whether they were about to get slammed by the latest hurricane.

We haven't seen hurricane tracking chart handouts for years, but if you want one they are easy to get.

The exact charts used by the National Hurricane Center (NHC) are available for download from the NHC here. Select "Atlantic" and you're good to go. You can print out the chart and use it repeatedly, or simply print a bunch of them and use one for each storm that may approach an area of interest -- like, SXM. Bear in mind that this hurricane season may well be frontloaded — so you might want to print a few of these now and not save doing that for later.

10. Did You See "Hurricane Forecast Changes" in Sec. One?

It's a major story... don't miss it.

11. Heyliger Reportedly Now Has Kidney Tumor

The biggest vote-getter in all recent Dutch side SXM elections — and arguably the Dutch side politician who has accomplished the most in the last 20 years, as we said here last week, Theo Heyliger has been in pretrial detention first in Bonaire and more recently in SXM where he had been suffering with gout and, his relatives charge, inadequate medication to treat it.

He was moved a couple of weeks ago to the St. Maarten Medical Center to be given some much-needed medical care for gout. Press reports indicate that he also had surgery and is recovering at the St. Maarten Medical Center.

Reports published in St. Maarten media are also saying that Mr. Heyliger now has a kidney tumor. At the time of the publication, it was not known whether the tumor was cancerous. Our hope, and that of his many fans throughout SXM, is for his robust health of the past to return quickly. He has always been the driving force behind most of the productive changes in SXM over the last few decades.

12. Very Dry Weather Has SXM Hoping for Relief

Exceptionally dry weather over the last few months in SXM and on other nearby islands has caused a number of fires, most recently a hillside fire near the Saba airport and more recently another hillside fire near Happy Bay beach on the French side of SXM.

Most people on SXM are hoping for some kind of relief from the dryness. A brief light nighttime shower last week did little to solve the problem, which has caused at least one small French side pond to dry up completely. Since SXM gets its drinking water by desalinating seawater, the island has no shortages. But hillsides and pastures are parched and the danger of an accidental fire is high.

Be careful out there.

13. Eclipse Owner Abramovich Building New Superyacht, Solaris

One of the largest super megayachts in the world is the Eclipse, for the last several years a familiar sight in SXM since it is normally moored off the Simpson Bay coast much of each winter.

Eclipse owner Roman Abramovich has owned a number of supermegayachts over the years and has sold some of his previous ones, including Luna and Le Grand Bleu, both of which have also been seen in St. Maarten waters.

Now we hear confirmed reports that Mr. Abramovich is building yet another supermegayacht, this one termed an expedition yacht, to be called Solaris. Based upon the appearance of many past Abramovich yachts in SXM waters, and the fact that he owns a large estate in St. Barth, it's highly likely that Solaris will be seen in the not-too-distant future in the waters off SXM and St. Barth.

Here is more on this.

14. Tech Talk: You May Not Need That New Computer...

Tech Talk is an infrequently published column about consumer technology published here in SXM Weekly News. The last iteration of it was published several years ago. Here is our latest, and the info in it could be quite useful to you:

If you're not satisfied with the speed of your computer, the issue may not be inadequate memory, too many programs, or the fact that you want Jaguar performance out of a Honda.

The answer may be easier than you think, and it may not involve buying a new computer. Despite the fact that computers are cheap you may want to opt for a less pricey alternative to vastly upgrade the performance of your laptop.

We suggest you update your system from a traditional magnetic-based mechanical hard disk drive to a solid-state drive. Such SSDs used to be enormously expensive, but those days are over. 1 TB solid-state drives — which will accommodate most systems — can now be purchased for a bit over $100, and 2 TB solid-state drives can now be purchased for roughly $299 and they are well worth the purchase price, which is far less than the price of a good new computer.

The difference in performance is astonishing. You will notice it when you start your system, when you access programs, when you start complex programs, or when you simply interact with multiple programs simultaneously. Everything is infinitely faster, even backups. You can have a computer tech clone your current hard drive to a new solid-state drive and replace it in your system, but you can also do it yourself.

Using free Macrium Reflect disk cloning and backup software, you can clone your current Hard Drive to your new 2.5 inch solid state drive using a cheap ($8) Orico disk enclosure you can buy from Amazon. The cloning should take a maximum of a couple of hours. Once it is completed, you can carefully follow instructions you find on YouTube for replacing your Hard Drive with the newly cloned solid-state drive. If you don't feel secure in doing this yourself, you can have a tech savvy friend do it or a nearby tech shop that you trust.

Again, we've done it and it works wonders. Our recommendation is the Samsung EVO 860 solid-state drive, which offers long life, great speed, and outstanding quality.

15. Leisurely Lunches are IZI

IZi Ristorante Italiano in Simpson Bay, long one of our favorites and easily one of the very best Italian restaurants on the island (the very best on the Dutch side) is also open for lunch Tuesday through Saturday. The portions are generous, the food is delicious, and there are usually no crowds for lunch. If you have not tried iZi for lunch, make a point of it on your next visit. It's also a fantastic venue for dinners.

If you're looking for something elegant and uncommon, make a reservation for the iZi tasting menu, something that owner David Foini has done for years but has just recently introduced at his flagship SXM restaurant. Tell him we sent you — you will love it.

16. State-of-the-Art New Carrefour in Cole Bay Opens in July

The large Carrefour supermarket in Cole Bay, destroyed completely by hurricane Irma in September 2017, will be reopening in July, just a few weeks away, in a completely rebuilt new state-of-the-art facility.

We expect to have the full story in a future edition of SXM Weekly News and photographs on our Everything SXM Facebook site. Keep your eyes here for all the news of importance from SXM

17. Carol & Ron Zenaro's Thanks for Buying $100K in

Cancer Bracelets

Ever since their son Scott passed away from cancer a number of years back, Carol and Ron Zenaro have been selling beautiful handmade bracelets in an effort to raise $100,000 for the Lazarex Cancer Foundation, which works to help patients fighting cancer achieve better outcomes.

Carol and Ron asked us to pass along their thanks to you for your many purchases that have helped push their sales over $100,000 a major help in the fight against this disease.

18. Where to Get The Best SXM Map

Michal Kasprowski developed it, and today Rafal Kasprowski carries on the tradition. The map they produce is oversized and printed on durable, heavy paper to last for years. It is fit to be used as an attention-getting wall hanging, which we do in our office, or in everyday use as you move around the island. It is constantly updated, with the latest versions distributed as they are produced. It is the most detailed, most reliable, and most authoritative map of SXM. If you're looking for maps of other islands in the Caribbean, midok.com, their company, also produces equally detailed and accurate maps of many other countries of the Caribbean. You can contact them through midok.com and tell them you read about them in Jeff Berger's SXM Weekly News.

Customer stories are below.

24. SkyMed Customer Stories Protect Against Pricy Emergency Medical Evacuations by Getting SkyMed:

Emergency medical evacuations are payable in cash in advance and often cost upwards of $45,000 -- unless you have a SkyMed membership. SkyMed Takes You Home® to doctors and hospitals you know and trust, and where your health insurance actually works. It's available to Americans and Canadians and to X-Pats of both countries, taking them home from throughout the USA, Canada, Mexico, Bermuda, the Bahamas, and all the nations of the Caribbean including Cuba. Global coverage is available covering every country around the world except those on the U. S. State Department watch list. SkyMed makes all medical evacuation arrangements and pays for them directly...you just pay for your SkyMed membership.

Here are examples of SkyMed in action:

On a recent Thursday at Mullet Bay Beach, a woman at the edge of the water fell and accidentally knocked down her friend, standing close by. The friend felt pain in her leg as she got up, went to a hospital, and was told she had a "soft tissue injury" and should relax in the sun. Pain continued. Next day she went to the Maho Clinic for another opinion since she couldn't put any weight on the leg without pain. The doctor there sent her to the French Side for a new x-ray. That diagnosis came back - broken leg and she had to be medically evacuated back to the US for surgery. A few days before, the woman had bought short-term SkyMed medevac protection for her short trip to SXM. Cost, under $100. She was sent home by jet by SkyMed. The charge for the jet: $0. Without SkyMed, had she needed a medevac jet, the $26,000 (approx.) price of that jet home would have had to be paid in cash in advance; with SkyMed she was home and in the hospital of her choice the next day for $0 out-of-pocket.

Mary Beth and her partner Don were vacationing in SXM when Don fell and broke his hip -- only about a month after they had bought SkyMed. SkyMed flew them home on a medevac jet for the hospital care he needed. Flight cost to the patient: $0. Savings: over $35,000.

An MD from Florida who always visits SXM was on a cruise vacation to the Greek Islands with his wife when he broke his femur aboard the ship. He was rushed to the hospital in Corfu but called SkyMed which arranged and paid for an emergency medevac flight to Athens for urgent surgery. A few days later SkyMed evacuated him again, with an excellent male nurse, all the way home to Florida, where an ambulance took him home for recovery. Required flight cost to the patient: $0. Savings: huge.

A Summer trip ended in disaster when a child visiting her grandmother in Grand Case was bitten in the head by the grandmother's bulldog, imperiling the girl's eyesight. She was flown to Miami in a medical evacuation jet for emergency eye surgery that saved her sight. Flight cost to the patient: $0.

A woman from Virginia shopped at an island grocer and headed back to her car carrying two bags of groceries. She tripped and fell on a curb and knew at once she had fractured her hip. After being stabilized locally, she was flown home on a medical evacuation jet from SkyMed where she had the surgery she needed. Flight cost to the patient: $0.

Two men were riding their horses on a hill in Cay Bay when a car backfiring spooked one of the horses, which threw its rider. The other rider got off his horse to check his companion when the car again backfired, spooking the horse again which led it to kick its dismounted driver in the head, luckily causing "only" a severely dislocated jaw. The local hospital had no ability to solve that problem so the victim was airlifted by SkyMed back to Pennsylvania for surgery. Flight cost to the patient: $0.

A member of the clergy fell down cement stairs and broke her leg. She too was airlifted home by SkyMed for surgery. Flight cost to the patient: $0.

Not all trips end well: anything can happen when you travel. Being a member of SkyMed was the common thread in all these cases. SkyMed takes its members home, usually in a private, ICU-equivalent medical evacuation jet -- home to doctors and hospitals the patient knows and trusts -- and home where their health insurance works. That's just one of up to 18 benefits received by SkyMed members for not much more than $1.30/day for annual or multiyear memberships.

All this is why we always recommend SkyMed. Call Jeff Berger weekdays at 508-747-8281 and leave your name, phone number, and time zone. Jeff will call back at a mutually convenient time and answer all your questions. He can also sign you up by phone in about 10 minutes. You're eligible to apply regardless of your age or health if you are a U.S. or Canadian citizen or an American or Canadian ExPat living in SXM or certain other countries.

Nobody is immune: anything can happen anywhere. Do it today. To learn more, visit www.skymed.com/jmb, our new SkyMed site, going live shortly.. JMB members get big discounts off SkyMed's regular pricing: see the story about JMB Website Supporters in this section.

More Info on SkyMed...

On its guaranteed renewable annual and multiyear memberships, SkyMed has a 90-day waiting period for coverage of pre-existing conditions -- everything else is covered in full as soon as your SkyMed membership has been approved, per SkyMed's member services agreement.

If you're traveling more than three months into the future, you can beat that one-time 90-day pre-existing conditions exclusion by joining today. That way the 90-day exclusion period will be over by the time you travel -- so you're covered in full, including pre-existing conditions, at that time.

SkyMed Takes You Home® when you become critically ill or injured when traveling. There is no age limit to apply, and once you're enrolled you can renew without further medical checks regardless of your attained age or your health at the time of renewal. Without SkyMed, if you need an Emergency Medical Evacuation, you must pay for it in cash, in advance. No cash, no evacuation. And the cost without SkyMed can be astronomical. Why risk that?

By contrast, if you're a SkyMed member, you call SkyMed directly and they make all the arrangements for all the services they provide. SkyMed Takes You Home -- what else matters?

And there is no age limit to apply. Call us at 508-747-8281 and ask for Jeff; he'll answer your questions and can take your application by phone, usually in under 10 minutes.

It's available to Americans, Canadians, and X-Pats from both countries. Short-term and annual coverage includes the USA (all 50 states), Canada, Mexico, Bermuda, the Bahamas, and all the nations of the Caribbean including Cuba. Global coverage is available on annual memberships for a $99 additional yearly fee, but global coverage is standard on multiyear SkyMed Ultimate memberships, which are both SkyMed's best and its least expensive medevac memberships.
